C24 Gallery presents an afternoon of performances for CAMPAIGN
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 2012 4PM - 6PM

New York, February 2, 2012 – C24 Gallery is pleased to announce an afternoon of performances on February 11 between 4-6pm for the group exhibition CAMPAIGN, curated by Amy Smith-Stewart, currently on view through February 25. Lisa Kirk along with Hrafnhildur Arnardottir aka Shoplifter will perform in the gallery during these hours and Katie Cercone and the Push Pops perform at 5pm. In their performances, Kirk, Shoplifter and Cercone will further the exhibitions critique of the portrayal of the female body in popular culture through performances involving rhythm, color, movement, scent and sound. CAMPAIGN is on view through February 25, 2012.

ABOUT CAMPAIGN

Curated by Amy Smith-Stewart, CAMPAIGN features artworks which place the popular depiction of the female body in a torrent of unrestrained expression from 27 international artists. While appropriating imagery from mainstream culture and repurposing fashionable tropes, CAMPAIGN creates alternative meanings that reveal hidden truths—exploring the stereotypes of femininity to uncover contemporary self-reflective practices. The artists also show how technological advances enable the manipulation of a visual vernacular. This fuels a fixation with transformation that complicates ongoing struggles with personal identity.
